ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Ms. Naimsha Patel

Upon graduating with a Master's degree in Maxillofacial and Craniofacial Technology at King's College London in 2008, Naimsha Patel became a practising full member of the Institute of Maxillofacial Prosthetists and Technologists (IMPT). On completion of her studies, she was employed as a Senior Lecturer in the Academic Centre of Reconstructive Science (ACRS) at King's College London Faculty of Dentistry, Oral & Craniofacial Sciences in January 2009. Having gained her teaching qualification, she was solely responsible for the education of Dental Technology students at Eastman Dental Institute. Following this, she gained employment at King's College Hospital, Denmark Hill, where she contributed to the teaching of 3rd year dental undergraduates in Prosthetic Dentistry. Her most significant contribution and speciality to this establishment during the last nine years, has focused primarily on the clinical and technical teaching for international and national students enrolled on the 3 MSc programmes in ACRS.
